CHOOSE, COLOR, CREATE -- CR-HOME LAUNCHES InColor™ BY PETERS-REVINGTON
21 NEW ACCENTS, 13 NEW COLORS, 300 NEW CREATIVE OPTIONS
WITH COORDINATING UPHOLSTERY BY COCHRANE

LINCOLNTON, NC, March 2007 – Chromcraft Revington, Inc. and its CR-Home family of furniture brands, including occasional brand, Peters-Revington, and upholstery brand, Cochrane, will launch InColor™, a dynamic new “create your own” accent program offering consumers nearly 300 creative ways to add more choice, more color and more creative looks to their homes. InColor™ will launch with 21 painted and eclectically-styled occasional pieces by Peters-Revington - all available in the consumer’s choice of 13 fresh new colors. To complete the look, CR-Home’s Cochrane brand will offer a host of coordinating fabrics and casual living upholstery styles to support the InColor™ accent program. The consumer can then customize her own collection.

New InColor™ occasional accents by Peters-Revington offer consumers maximum choice in function as well as fresh expressive color options and versatility. The company designed the collection as an eclectic mix of its most popular occasional styles and accent features. The 21 new accents include: large mobile cocktail table, small cocktail table, a corner table, organization table, demi lune, bookcases, media centers, and desk. The collection is designed to include popular home fashion features such as board and batten panels, casters, and straight and shaped legs, along with unique elements of function and storage that are the hallmark of Peters-Revington’s value.

The new InColor™ color palette includes 13 fresh, custom-developed colors that were inspired by consumers desire to accent their home in colors that reflect their individual style, express their personality and convey their love of friends and family. These insights into the use of color and functionality were garnered through extensive CR-Home consumer research in markets throughout the U.S.

“Consumers tell us they would like to customize accents and occasional furniture. They serve a purpose. And we have found that our consumers use color to describe their style more often than they use design terms common to the industry,” said David R. Corbin, Corporate Senior Vice President of Chromcraft Revington, Inc. “The new InColor™ program marries these two concepts, creating a greater whole.”

“We took our color cues this spring directly from consumers, and applied the colors they want to the styles they use most among the most popular Peters-Revington and Cochrane furniture collections,” Corbin added. “InColor™ offers CR-Home consumers a variety of ways to add color and pure style to their homes. These accents can take a room from traditional to transitional, contemporary to cottage chic, and urban casual to coastal – all in colors that accentuate our consumers’ sense of fashion, eclectic style and personal preference.”

The new 13 color palette moves from light to dark and vibrant to pastel. Colors include creamy shades of Soft White, Ivory, Buttercream, and Bluebell; vibrant splashes of Buttercup, Honeydew, Teaberry, Spice and Chili Pepper; and dusty classics like Sage, French Blue, Navy and Licorice.

“Occasional furniture is an impulse purchase and has to be shown in an environment with upholstery as a driving force,” said Corbin. “As a family of brands, CR-Home can offer product combinations that allow retailers to showcase Peters-Revington occasionals and accents side-by-side with coordinating InColor™ fabrics and upholstery by Cochrane. The concept creates a natural win for the retailer.”

As part of the CR-Home InColor™ program, Cochrane will offer four new sofa styles in corresponding upholstery fabrics to mix and match with the InColor™ accents and occasional furniture pieces from Peters-Revington. The new sofa styles include a traditional (camel back), contemporary (drawn back) and transitional (3 over 3 with T cushion) option, with sock arms and wood frames that are smaller in scale (less than 85”) for a clean, more tailored look.

Upholstery fabrics offered include large and small scale plaids and gingham, solid twills and seersucker patterns, stripes and multi-stripe patterns. Depending on the sofa shape and trim choices, the bright and cheerful selection of saturated colors and fabrics fit into any décor from traditional, to country, contemporary and coastal. All Cochrane sofas come with choice of frame, feet, wood finish, comfort loft, back and arm style, and matching accent pillows.
